D. Commentary

The daily ministerial media briefing was held at 5.30pm and led by the Health and Social Care Secretary, Matt Hancock, who announced the launch of the NHS Test and Trace service which comes into effect in England at 9am on Thursday 28th May 2020 – today. Test and Trace will form a central part of the government’s coronavirus recovery strategy. Two detailed pieces of guidance were issued:

- NHS Test and Trace: how it works; and
- NHS Test and Trace: workplace guidance.

The NHS Test and Trace service has been designed to:

- Ensure that anyone who develops COVID-19 symptoms can quickly be tested to discover if they have the virus, and also includes targeted asymptomatic testing of NHS and social care staff and care home residents; and
- Help trace close contacts of anyone who tests positive for COVID-19 and, if necessary, notifies them that they must self-isolate at home to stop the spread of the virus.

The government reports that some 25,000 contact tracing staff have been recruited to work with Public Health England to trace the contacts of up to 10,000 people per day who test positive for COVID-19. This can be scaled up if needed. The following flowchart sets out the key features:
